Catherine the Great was a great patron of James Tassie, ordering thousands of copies of classical carved gemstones after those in British public and private collections. These were delivered between 1783 and 1788 in specially-made cabinets, accompanied by a five-volume handwritten catalog. When James' nephew inherited the business, he continued to deal with the Russian court and his work would have been well known to Alexander I.

- 2282 Medal. Silver, frosted and glazed. 51 mm. By L.C. Wyon. Visit of Emperor Nicholas I to England, 1844. Diakov 577.1 (R3), Sm --, BHM 2151 (R3), Eimer 1386. Nicholas I portrait r., signed L. WYON below / Seven-line Latin legend. The glass held by tape at edge. In fitted case of issue. Extremely rare. Choice uncirculated $ 3,000

The Tsar's visit lasted from June 1 to 9; he met with Queen Victoria and the royal family on June 2nd. Just short of his 18th birthday, Leonard Wyon executed medals for the visit. In BHM, Brown noting mint records reports that 15 medals were struck for Nicholas on July 24, a further 12 on Sept. 13 and finally two more on Oct. 7. It is likely that these are silver examples, and whilst the medal is recorded in silver, no glazed specimens have been noted.
